PRESS RELEASE

Leukaemia and power lines: Conservative response

Commenting on the report featured currently on SKY news, which claims that the Government withheld the damning results of a report linking childhood leukaemia and high voltage power lines for 3 years, Shadow Health Secretary Andrew Lansley said:

"These are very disturbing results which will be of great concern to the public. If it is true that the Government had the information for 3 years and failed to make it public, or take any action in response, that would be a disgrace.

"I am calling today on the Government to make an immediate statement about when they received this info, why it has not been made public and what action they have taken so far".
